Treasury counter to the extent of £2,323,111. The State Treasurer, Mr. McEwen, delivered his budget speech in the Legislative Assembly last night. He read it. The speaker, Mr. McEwen, was received with cheers when he rose to make his financial statement.

The Treasurer said:—

The accounts of the financial year ended on June 30 last show the following satisfactory results:—The consolidated revenue for that year, viz:—The revenue and receipts under division of Governmental amounts to £2,466,800, or £2,012,116 in excess of my estimate. The principal heads of revenue which contributed to this result were: Stamp duties, £2,432,421; income tax, £2,365; unclassified receipts, £2,634, while net receipts from land revenue, after allowing for a decrease of £1,000,000 in receipts from pastoral occupation, including Western Land Division, showed an increase over estimate of £1,612,734. Minor heads of receipts contributed in the aggregate £2,353,333. Decreases in receipts were £1,721, of which Commonwealth returns showed a loss of £25,430, while refunds were £20,236 less than estimated. Under the division of business undertakings, receipts totalled £2,584,466, or £17,198 in excess of estimate. The increase under this division were: Railways and Tramways, £1,414,584; Sydney Harbour Trust, £2,492,000; Metropolitan Board of Water Supply and Sewerage, £2,724,000; Hunter District Water Supply and Sewerage Board failed to reach the original estimate of £1,117,700. Refunds, however, exceeded estimate by £657,700. The net result, after allowing for a decrease of £1,000,000 in receipts from pastoral occupation, was £2,466,800, or £2,012,116 in excess of my estimate.

DRINK IN THE HOUSE.

PROHIBITION CARRIED.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

MELBOURNE, Thursday

Ever since Federation has been established, the sale of drink in the refreshment room has been the subject of debate session after session. Once more the question was brought forward this afternoon by the member for Brisbane, Mr. Pininfone, who asked the Minister in connection with the sale of alcoholic liquors, should he be prohibited with reference to the House? When the member rose he was greeted with ironical cries and cries of "Wowaw," but this did not deter him in the slightest. When Mr. Pininfone rose to make the motion he said that some members who had passed and gone, had been addicted to the drink. This time he made no mistake. He kept safe ground, he made but few remarks, confining himself to reading the haunted me sat down and Mr. Brown seconded the motion in a formal way. Nobody looked at the floor. The House was aware of it. The division bells were ringing. The vote showed that the motion had been agreed to by 215 out of a total voting strength of 225 in the House.

It is not expected that anything will result from the motion in the Senate, which shares in the governance of the refreshment room, has not agreed with it. Is that chamber a similar model was moved, and it was agreed with an amendment providing that drinks should be obtained in the House or a local option ballot of members, officers of the House, fansard, and pressman was taken. It has been pointed out that even if the Po-could not, as the Parliament House is

Members of the State Senate have a right of access to the editorial rooms, and "if their drinks were kept in front of them, they would be in a right" to get them.

The drink question had been brought up by a motion by the Hon. J. W. McWhorter, a member of a committee of the House to report on the pay of the members of the Legislature. Mr. Kelly set the bill on its side and brought forward a resolution to be voted on by moving an amendment to the bill to exclude the members of the Legislature from the list of persons excluded. It would be all right, he said, if the members were drinking after the session was over. When the motion was put, Mr. Kelly said the Government could not pay full the Government could not pay full the motion. To-day it was plainly seen that the Ministry had not changed its mind. The Ministry has been a continual rumbling going on between the Government and the rank and file of the fighting soldiers' pay, and members who have many soldier voters in their constituencies have been making pertinent inquiries of the Government about the wages. So far, the Minister for Defence has been saying that the members off, but this time it looked as if something would have to be done to save the face of the Government. Notwithstanding what members of the Labour party say on the platform about awaiting, they are in advance as they say that Liberals are in advance the earnings to a living wage once they are content of the coffers. It might be claimed that they have already made several advances but this has only been after they have been whitened into it by members of their own party, who, in turn, are kept to it by constituents, who happen to be the sufferers.

It was said in the case of the increase of posted employees, when the minimum wage for anyone over 21 was fixed at £3. The Government after time then Postmaster-General refused to evade taking action in this direction as he was at last forced to do so by the attitude of Mr. Catta, one of his own members. In the case of the soldiers it is pretty well known throughout the House that discontent is a life, and that if the period were not signed on for a year or two permanent forces tomorrow would be considerably depleted. This opinion was freely expressed to-day by both sides of the House.

The Government has been told that the Government opposed to having the facts brought out by a committee. The Prime Minister.

for a committee. The motion, as a short speech objecting to the motion, should be trusted that the Minister for Defence should be trusted to deal fairly with the men, but apparently judging by the remarks from the Minister's benches, some of the Labour members are loath to trust the soldiers' pay with the Minister as the Opposition are.

with. Had the strike not extended deep-sea wharfs yesterday there would have been plenty of work offering, as the wharf is fairly full of steamers and ships all requiring attention at the hands of the wharf labourers.

One of the strangest features of the strike is that, although two mass meetings were held in favour of striking and the strike reports are most persistent, the bulk of members of the union are not in it. It is asked on all sides why ballot has not been taken. Mass meetings are considered unsatisfactory means of ascertaining the real views of members.

which, by 60 votes to 40, it was a strike. He was then summoned to a compulsory conference in Melbourne by Justice Higgins, but the conference proved futile. While Mr. Hillier was absent from Melbourne, Mr. "Ned" Kelly presided at a mass meeting of strikers in the T. J. Higgins hall, when it was decided to call a general strike.

Kelly is a wharf-labourer himself.

The Federal Attorney-General, Hughes, as president of the Watersiders' Federation, of which the Sydney labourers' Union is a component part, is admittedly opposed to the strike; but it is not known publicly what view Mr. Hill takes of the action of the men in deciding to go on strike. Being in Government employment his Latest speech of Mr. McGowan's second story consisted of recounting the story of the financial year which closed on June 30 last. As this practically ancient history, and which is fairly amply dealt with in our columns, apart from stating that the Treasurer found himself with a credit of £268,706 on July 1, 1910, he closed June 30, 1911, with a diminished credit of £201,554. With this he had to face reduced returns from the Customs, and also to provide for certain financial
